Description

Vlassak Trade is a Dutch company based in Serbia. This young and energetic team strives to connect international companies with the Serbian market and to help both parties grow and develop.

"The idea is to provide a small, highly reactive unit capable of taking action very quickly in order to help your company"

As a CEO or business owner, you'll often find yourself in a position that requires a professional in areas beyond your expertise. Your first urge might be to hire someone in-house to handle specific tasks or projects. However, this may not be the most effective solution. After all, there are costs involved in hiring a professional to fit a very specific role. Additionally, you may find that you don't truly have enough work to justify a new hire.

"This initiative enables us to work with the company in an extremely flexible way"
